HOLY TRINITY CHURCH

Robert Blackwell, staff member, of the Newark
Public Library, Newark, New Jersey, did extensive research in 1981 on the history, name changes,
and pastors who served the DEUTSCHE EVANGELISCHE KIRCHE. In 1981, Mr. Blackwell phoned the HOLY TRINITY CHURCH to follow up on an indication that the BETHESDA-ROSEVILLE CHURCH had joined with the HOLY TRINITY CHURCH. HOLY TRINITY CHURCH provided
Mr. Blackwell with data that the old records were

Dear Mrs. Wratten:

This is in response to your letter of 8 October. The following is the entry for the church you are seeking in our Historical Directory:

Newark, NJ — Third. Org. 1848; became indep, 1861, then Luth; pas, Francis M. Serenbetz, 1848-49; Fred A. Lehbach, 1850-61.

The last information we have is that the congregation become a Lutheran church. There are no records for this congregation in the Reformed Church in America Archives. Rev. Lehbach was suspended from the ministry at that time.

The main office of archives of the Lutheran church are located at their headquarters in Chicago. I suspect they would be able to point you in the right direction to find the records if it remained a Lutheran church. If I can assist in any other way, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Russell L. Gasero

Dear Mrs. Wratten:

I am writing in response to your letter to Kim Butler of May 3. Kim is no longer working here at the archives, but hopefully I can be of some assistance in answering your questions.

Thank you for all of the information on Bethesda-Roseville Lutheran Church and its antecedent bodies. We do have the record books here for the Bethesda Lutheran Church, but not for Roseville. These were probably kept at the church after the merger. Bethesda was a member of the American Evangelical Lutheran Church, which had been the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Newark Evening News articles of August 25, 1962 mistakenly calls the synod the "Evangelical Lutheran denomination." The Bethesda books were sent in to the old AELC office when the Bethesda-Roseville merger took place.

Bethesda-Roseville dissolved on December 21, 1969. At that time the records should have been sent to the Lutheran Archives Center at Philadelphia, whose address you have. They may not have the records for the church prior to its joining the United Lutheran Church in America. The Newark Lutheran Mission took over the old Roseville building, but was not a continuation of the congregation.

While Pastors Lehlbach and Haas were not listed on the Lutheran clergy roster, Pastors G. Schambach and W.L. Siebert were. Rev. Schambach was a member of the General Council's New York and New Jersey Synod, while Rev. Siebert was a member of the General Council's Ministerium of New York. Although the pastors were synod members, the congregation remained independent.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

Joel Thoreson

Roseville Church Centennial Today

Roseville Evangelical Church will start the celebration of its 100th anniversary today with a worship service at 10 A. M. in the church hall, 87 Fifth street, Newark. Rev. Oscar E. Braune will speak. The anniversary dinner will be Wednesday at 6.30 P. M. in the Irvington Elks Club. The commemoration will be concluded at worship service next Sunday, when Rev. William L. Siebert, pastor, will review highlights of the church's history.

The church was formerly the Deutsche Evangelische Kirche, founded by a group of German immigrants in a small chapel on Mulberry street in 1844. German was the language spoken in both church and Sunday school. In later years the elders noted that the younger generation drifted to churches in which services were spoken in English.

The present pastor instituted services in English in 1905. Four of the 28 in his first confirmation class were confirmed in English. The changeover helped attendance, but many of the older German families were moving from the district and it was decided to seek a new site.

In 1913, members of the German Evangelical Lutheran Church and a group from the Second German Presbyterian Church on Sussex avenue joined forces and built the present edifice. Ground was broken in 1914, but the war interfered with the original plans. The present building, redecorated for the anniversary, includes Sunday school rooms, recreation rooms and the church proper.

There are six active organizations in the church today. They include the board of trustees, the Ladies' Aid, the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Sunday school, the Ladies' Auxiliary and the choir. A men's Bible class formed in 1933 has suspended meetings temporarily. The Junior Auxiliary publishes "The Boomerang," which keeps members in service informed on church activities.

THE REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church, at the southeast corner of Broad street and Fourth avenue, was organized December 25, 1874, in Association Hall, on West Park street. In this hall, formerly the Park Presbyterian Church, and now, much remodelled, the library of the New Jersey Historical Society, the congregation worshipped until May 4, 1877, when its church edifice on the east side of Halsey street, near New, was opened. This church was of stone and brick. The cornerstone was laid on October 11, 1876. The site is now covered by the west end of the Hahne store. One of the dignitaries present at the laying of the cornerstone was Bishop William R. Nicholson, who from 1872 to 1874 had been rector of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church of Newark. He had resigned from Trinity on ritualistic grounds, and had become a bishop of the Reformed Episcopal denomination, which at New York, on December 3, 1873, was formally organized. He died June 7, 1901. The Emmanuel congregation worshipped in the Halsey street edifice for nineteen years. The cornerstone of the present handsome church was laid July 22, 1895, and the first service was held April 26, 1896. The rectors have been: John Howard Smith, D. D., February 14, 1875, to October 1, 1884; E. B. England, D. D., November 16, 1884, to November 24, 1889; John Dennis, July 7, 1890, to January 1, 1893; George Savary, 1893-96; William D. Stevens, D. D., January 1, 1897, to January 1, 1907, and the present rector, Rev. Robert W. Peach, who took charge May 1, 1907.

THE EVANGELICAL (GERMAN) CHURCHES.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church, 60 Mulberry street, south of East Park, was organized February 1, 1847, in what was known as Temperance Hall and was later transformed into the present church auditorium. This hall formerly had been the Primitive Methodist Church. There Lorenzo Dow, the eccentric itinerant preacher, used to visit and preach. Behind the church is the old burying ground, in which there are still a few stones. Used as a paving stone is the marble stone tablet of the Primitive church dated 1832. The German Evangelical Church rebuilt the edifice in 1869. The pastors have been: John David Rose, February 17, 1847, to July 3, 1848; J. M. Serenbetz, July 3, 1848, to October 23, 1849; Frederick A. Lehlbach, November 22, 1849, to September 3, 1875 (died September 11); George Schambach, October 10, 1875, to 1903; F. E. C. Haas, 1903-1905, and the present pastor, Rev. William L. Siebert, who took charge in 1905.

St. Stephen's German United Evangelical Church, Ferry street and Hamburg place, was organized March 17, 1874. The cornerstone of the present substantial edifice was laid June 25, 1874, and the dedicating was accomplished in the following December. Most of the charter members had come from the Third German Presbyterian Church, led by Rev. O. Kraft, who had been pastor of that church. The pastors have been: Oscar Kraft, 1874-79; R. Katerndahl, 1879-97, and the present pastor, Rev. Edward Fuhrman, who took charge July 1, 1897.

It was formerly regularly supplied by the same pastor who supplied the Essex Park Evangelical. The pastors have been: William Frenzen (founder), 1900-1901; Henry Dahlhoff, 1901-1908, and the present pastor, Rev. Frederick Gabelman, who took charge in the spring of 1908.

MISCELLANEOUS METHODIST CHURCHES.

The Emanuel Methodist Episcopal Church (German), Clinton avenue and Hedden terrace, formerly at the northeast corner of Mulberry and Walnut streets, was organized in 1846. For a time services were held at 251 Market street. The first building was of wood. The second was of brick, erected in 1871, and abandoned in 1913, the church having decided upon a new site in a residential section. The present handsome church was built in 1913. The pastors have been: John Sauter, 1846-48; Thomas Steck and Thomas Pfusten, John Swablen, 1850; S. F. Zimmerman, 1852; C. H. Hauner, John Sauter, 1853-55; F. C. Gratz, William Schwartz, 1856-60; C. Pape, 1903-1913, and the present pastor, Rev. John Mueller, who came in 1913, and is the first pastor of the new church, which has before it a great opportunity on Clinton Hill.

The Independent Methodist Church, formerly at Gould avenue and South Fourteenth street, was founded about 1901, by Rev. Charles F. Nettleship, who still is pastor. In 1912 a new church was built on Steuben street, near Ninth avenue, East Orange. This church represents a denomination incorporated by Mr. Nettleship, and there were for a time several other churches of the same body. The work of this particular church has met with success.

The Swedish M. E. Church is located at 165 South Tenth street; the present pastor is Rev. Fridolf Soderman.

St. James' African M. E. Church, 90 Union street, worships in the edifice that formerly belonged to the Sixth Presbyterian Church. Rev. H. P. Anderson was the pastor in 1902. Rev. R. French Hurley was there in 1910.
